

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A semiconductor laser has implantation regions that are effective as mode-selective regions in addition to current diaphragms in the edge region of a mesa. As a result, the 5 inner opening of the current diaphragms can be chosen to be larger than in the prior art. This leads to a low ohmic and thermal resistance and enables a high output power.

REL/nt